As an educator, it has always been my passion and mission to reduce stigma related to how Special Education is perceived as well as how to teach students to leverage their unique learning styles and see them not as a deficit but as a way to enhance the experience of those around them.

One way we can do this is by talking freely and openly about our own struggles as well as bringing attention to 'famous' people who have harnessed their unique learning profile and have not used it as a crutch or performance ceiling but have found ways to make themselves incredibly successful.

This month, we celebrate ADHD, Dyslexia, and Spina Bifida Awareness Month.
